
Manager Interview Project

Video Reflection

1

Danica Callaway

Team 21

Esvin Ojeda

Lola Hertsenberg

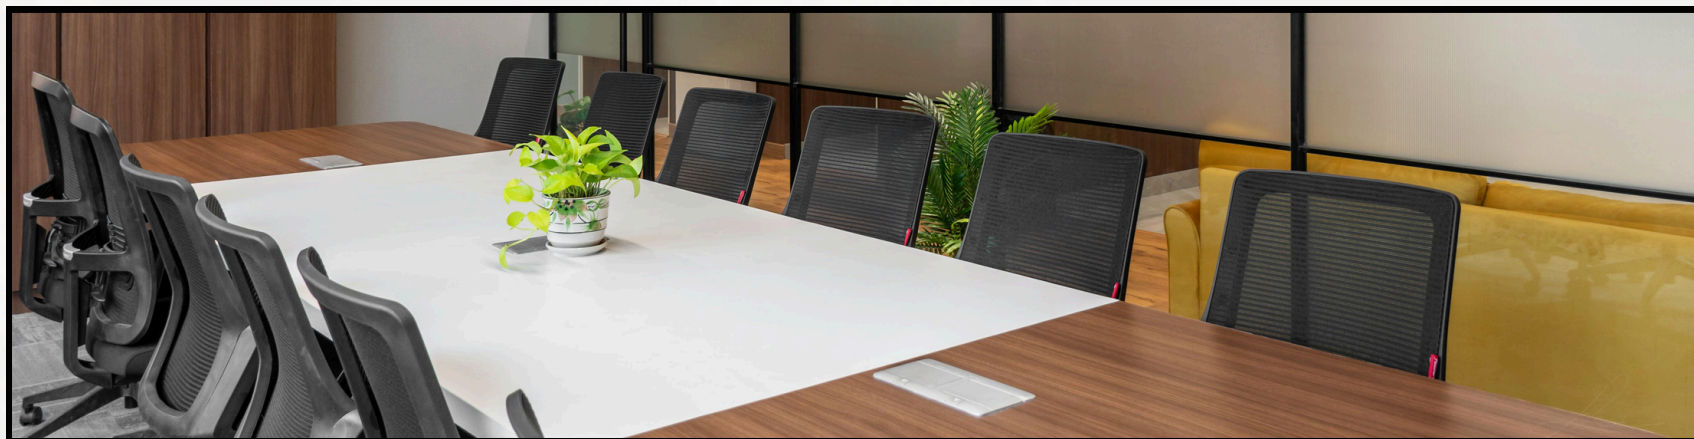

Sydney Cong

Insights From Manager Interviews

2

- Diverse industries, shared leadership qualities
 - Managers from retail, fitness, fast food, and automotive showed common leadership traits despite industry differences.
- Four functions of management in practice
 - Planning, organizing, leading, and controlling applied differently depending on role and industry.
- Challenges shaped by environment
 - Internal: staffing, performance, culture
 - External: competition, technology, economy
- Ethical awareness & leadership development
 - Managers uphold high ethical standards and adapt to challenges to maintain team trust and integrity.
- Key managerial skills vary by context
 - Human skills (team relationships) → Eduardo & Melissa
 - Technical skills (process planning) → Matthew
 - Conceptual skills (delegation, big-picture thinking) → Michael

Applying Class Concepts into the Workplace

3

- Mintzberg Managerial Roles:

- able to connect our knowledge of interpersonal, informational, and decisional roles with real life examples from our managers
- EX: Michael working as a figurehead, encourages employees to promote Chick-Fil-A's values

- Managerial Skills:

- recognized the particular skills used by our managers
- EX: Melissa communicating with her team through performance reviews

- Four Functions of Management:

- identified the ways in which each manager displayed all four functions
- EX: Eduardo planning and organizing his employees to give them sufficient training

- Organizational Environment:

- analyzed internal and external challenges faced by each manager
- EX: Matthew, at Hollister, faced issues internally, with low morale among employees due to cutting costs

Enhancing Career Readiness

4

This experience enhanced our career readiness by

- Refining interview confidence
- Gaining insight of workplace expectations
- Knowing the importance of communication and teamwork
- Understanding different types of leadership
- Learning how to handle ethical or financial challenges

It prepared our transition into the workplace through

- Giving a realistic idea of workplace professionalism and accountability
- Teaching how to effectively communicate with coworkers or supervisors